Biographical Sketch or Administrative History

Dominicana was a journal published by the student brothers of the Dominican Friars of the Province of St. Joseph. The publication began in 1916 at the brother's House of Studies in Washington, D.C. The student brothers published a variety of articles on theological topics as well as news about the Order. Other Dominican congregations, including Dominican Sisters of Houston, submitted brief news updates concerning their congregations for publication. In 1968 publication stopped; however, as of 2011, publication has resumed in the form of a daily blog.

Prior to Dominicana's initial publication in 1916, the Dominican Friars of the Province of St. Joseph published the Dominican Yearbook. This journal also consists of articles and updates from various Dominican congregations.
